

case study

tesa

Tesa UK Ltd, based in Blakelands Milton Keynes, are Europe's largest adhesive tape manufacturer. Their office staff were spread over two floors, the lower one consisting of various sized offices. To increase efficiency and better communication, they wished to unite them on the ground floor in a friendly, relaxing environment.

“acs had a clear understanding of our needs and, in many cases, our expectations were exceeded. acs met the five week time scale in spite of the additional changes made during the project. We now have a productive and open environment which has been well received by all of our staff.”

Paul Sargent, Facilities Manager

Having previously used acs's Furniture and Interiors division to design and install a more secure visitor's area, tesa had no hesitation in asking for their help again. The plans that acs produced (which included removing the ground floor offices and creating a central meeting area to seat four to six people) were supplemented with advice on colour schemes for the walls, carpets, ceiling tiles, chair fabrics and wood finishes. The storage problem was solved by introducing third level storage over the desks and low tambour fronted cupboards.

industry and size

One of the leading global brands of adhesive tape. 32 static UK users.

challenge

To accommodate two floors of staff on the ground floor, creating a friendly relaxing environment.

solution

Urgent plans were required in order for a quick decision to be made and the project completed in the shortest possible time. An open plan relaxed office was the best fit to accommodate the two floors.
