

case study

WD40

WD-40 - the world's number one multi-purpose lubricant – is not the only product in WD-40 Company's portfolio. They acquired 3-IN-ONE Oil and 1001 carpet care range in 1995 and 2004 respectively. As part of their expansion, additional office space was required at their European headquarters in Milton Keynes and it was decided to convert part of the factory area.

“acs has proved to be a strong, reliable partner for us as we grow the company. They have a sound understanding of our needs and produce refreshing, innovative designs. They also understand the importance of keeping to strict time scales”

Rebecca Rawsthorne, Sales & Administration Co-ordinator

acs were asked to draw up plans, obtain planning permission, carry out the structural and interiors work and supply and install the furniture. The project was well managed and the work completed to a high standard. As a result, WD-40 Company asked acs to manage another project – redesigning an open plan office area of thirteen people. This involved space planning, grouping people more effectively, upgrading the lighting and redesigning the storage to maximise space.

industry and size

Lubricant, 60 UK static users with world wide offices.

challenge

To accommodate new office space creating an open plan environment whilst maximising space.

solution

Space planning staff into groups more efficiently, upgrading the lighting and redesigning storage areas to maximise capacity.
