

case study global sense

Global Sense is a new up and coming business who were looking at acquiring new premises. The brief was to supply furniture, interior and cabling into their empty, two story office space with a function to showcase the business to clients. The project had to be delivered within budget and on a short time scale.

“Since Global Sense are working with some of the largest Blue Chip companies, providing the latest technology products, it was important that our facility portrayed a high tech and professional image. It was also important to deliver a solution on a keen budget and on short time scales. Rather than approaching a series of independent companies, acs were able to put a competitive package together and take full responsibility for the interiors, furniture and cabling. They performed well - on time and on budget.”

Martin Walder,
Managing Director

To achieve the targets provided by Global Sense acs's furniture consultant prioritised and worked closely with Global Sense, this included organising showroom visits, producing quick quote turnovers to keep the project moving and once the order was placed our interiors, cabling and furniture divisions worked closely and efficiently with each other to get the project finished on time.

industry and size

New technological business, 15 employees.

challenge

To create a clean and inviting, contemporary working environment whilst sticking to budget and time scale.

solution

Space planning possible layouts and colour schemes for the office space. Consistently keeping in touch with the client and internal divisions to maintain time scale.

